Visa Guidelines

Morocco Visa Policy

Under Morocco's visa policy, any foreigner coming to the country must obtain a visa unless they are citizens of a country on the visa-exempt list. Eligible visitors can stay in Morocco for 30 – 90 days without visas, but if they wish to stay for much longer, then they will need to apply for visas. Currently, the visa-free list keeps changing as nations and territories are entered and taken off. Before embarking on a trip to the country, make sure you check the visa-free list for your country. If you are not eligible, apply to the nearest Moroccan embassy or consulate for a visa.

- Types of visas provided by the Moroccan Authorities:

<https://www.consulat.ma/en/types-granted-visas>

<https://www.acces-maroc.ma/#/>

- Consult the visa-free list here:

<https://www.consulat.ma/en/list-countries-whose-citizens-are-exempted-entry-visa-morocco>

- For a step-by-step guideline on how to apply and the required documents, please visit the Moroccan consulate website:

<https://www.consulat.ma/en/ordinary-visas>

Morocco Electronic Travel Authorization

The Moroccan government issues another entry document to foreigners called an electronic travel authorization. This document is only issued to nationals from a few countries before entering Morocco, including Guinea, Mali, and the Republic of the Congo. It is issued online, and holders are granted access to Morocco for a limited time. Holders can visit for business or tourism or use it as a transit document to another country.

Morocco Electronic Visa

Another type of online travel document issued by Morocco is the electronic visa. King Mohammed VI launched the program to facilitate the issuance of visas to shorter term visitors coming to the country. The application for e-visas is fast and easy, and anyone who can operate a computer or smartphone can apply for it.

The electronic visa one is issued to ordinary passport holders from Thailand, Israel, Guatemala, Jordan, India, and Azerbaijan. The application is online and takes only a day or two to approve, with three days being the maximum duration. Apart from these countries mentioned, nationals with their country visas or resident permits may apply for it, too, even if the country is not on the visa-exempt list, as long as the documents are valid. However, these nations are selected, so check the list before deciding whether to apply for the visa.

Morocco ETA/e-Visa Eligibility

Here are the eligibility criteria for Morocco ETA or e-Visa.

- You must be from an eligible country.
- Your passport must be valid for at least 6 months from your entry date.
- You must not have any intention to live in the country permanently.
- You must have financial sufficiency to cover your expenses.
- You must have reserved accommodation in advance.
- You must have a confirmed flight ticket for a return or onward trip.

Key Information/ Details About Morocco and The Online Application

Only Travel Through Approved Routes

Only travel to Morocco through approved routes. For instance, transit visitors can only enter through any of the approved international airports, not the local ones. The same is the case for approved seaports for ferries and sea travelers. Apart from the legal implications of using approved routes, you should also consider your safety too.

Be Sure Of Your Eligibility

Before you apply for an e-visa or an electronic travel authorization, be sure of your eligibility. The most important eligibility criteria is your nationality. For instance, ETAs are only open to citizens of the Democratic Republic of The Congo, Guinea, and Mali, while citizens of more than 70 countries can apply for e-visas. This list is always changing, so check your country before moving forward with the application.

Conversion From Single Entry to Multiple Entry

Your e-visa is always issued as a single-entry document, but you can change it to a multiple-entry document once you arrive in Morocco. Such conversions can only be done in the country. While the Single entry is only valid for 30 days, the multiple entry document can be extended to 180 days validity. Even so, you can only stay for 30 days maximum per visit.

Pay The Fee Online

The online application fee is mandatory and can only be paid using a credit or debit card. Note that this fee is not refundable and does not guarantee that you will be issued the e-visa or ETA. Also, without paying the fee, you cannot submit the form.

Not For Work

Let us add that neither the ETA nor electronic visa should be used as a work visa. This is prohibited as both permits are only meant for noncommercial engagements like tourism, business, and transit. If you have secured a job in Morocco, you should apply for a work visa by visiting the nearest embassy or consulate.

This will ensure a smooth transition to the port, allowing everyone to fully immerse themselves in the day's activities.

All participants must be registered and accredited before the start of the annual meeting. Participants will be required to show their registration confirmation to collect their annual meeting registration badge, only persons with an annual meeting badge will have access to the event.

Local SIM Cards

For seamless communication during your stay in Tangier, acquiring a local SIM card is highly recommended. The process is straightforward and can be completed at various telecom providers' outlets, which are widely available throughout the city. You will need to present a valid passport for identification, and it's advisable to inquire about available data and call plans that best suit your needs. Popular telecom companies in Tangier include Maroc Telecom, Orange, and Inwi. These providers offer reliable network coverage across the city and provide options for both short-term and long-term plans. Remember to keep your passport and the purchased SIM card safely during your stay.

Currency and means of payment

The national currency is the Moroccan Dirham (MAD).

- €1 (EUR) is worth about 11 MAD.
- $1 (US DOLLAR) is worth about 10 MAD.

Foreign currency can be exchanged into dirhams at the campus, exchange offices and most bank branches. Cash is preferred for amounts under MAD 100. Beyond that, bank cards are widely accepted.

Electrical Outlets

In Morocco the power plug sockets are of type C and E. The standard voltage is 220 V and the frequency is 50Hz. Type C outlets are recognizable by their two round pins, like those found in Europe. These are commonly used for devices with lower power requirements like smartphones, cameras, and chargers. Type E outlets are similar but have an added grounding pin. They are suitable for a broader range of devices, including those with higher power demands such as laptops and hairdryers. To power your devices or appliances, you might need a plug adapter that fits the Moroccan outlet configuration.
